

Canterbury Cathedral 50th (Queen's Own) Regiment Campaign on the Sutlej 1845-1846 Memorial Plaque

The impressive memorial commemorating the 199 officers and other ranks of the 50th regiment, who lost their lives whilst serving with the regiment during the Campaign on the Sutlej, 1845-46, is located on the north wall of the nave in Canterbury Cathedral. Originally the design of the above female figure, emblematic of Fame was undraped, but the relevant authorities at Canterbury Cathedral insisted that she was draped as shown above. The memorial was erected soon after the curtailment of the Campaign on the Sutlej, and was paid for by subscriptions raised by the regiment. The following Roll of Honour has been compiled by accessing a number of relevant data sources, including the “Army of the Sutlej 1845-46 Casualty Roll,” and the Sutlej Medal Rolls that were at the India Office Library and Records, but which are now held at The British Library. In addition to the above sources of information, other data and publications have also been checked, and whilst doing so, the transcriber of the following brief commemorations was struck by how consistent all official documentation and other publications were regarding dates and causes of death. Normally, due to the variances that we find with the casualties from both world wars appertaining to cause of death, when checking different data sources, we usually enter "Died" as opposed to died of wounds or killed in action etcetera, but on this occasion causes of death have been added to the following officers and other ranks. In addition to what can arguably be best described as skirmishes, during the campaign a number of larger engagements were fought in which the 50th (Queen's Own) Regiment took part, and which resulted in relevant bars (clasps) on the campaign medal being awarded to the participants. The award of the medal was the first that was authorised, which was awarded with bars on any of the India medals. Although the medal awarded for India 1799-1826 was obviously for much earlier campaigns, it was not authorized until 1851. The relevant bars awarded to the following casualties (where applicable), have been added at their brief commemorations, and they were awarded for the battles of MOODKEE 1845, FERZESHUHUR 1845, ALIWAL 1846, and SOBRAON 1846. The 1845-46 Campaign on the Sutlej (First Sikh War) was a difficult one for the British, as the Sikh army was well trained and well armed. As a result British Casualties were heavy, although the actual campaign was short and concentrated, lasting only three months. However, the Sikhs were to return for a further conflict with the British two years later during (The Second Sikh War). Serving in the Division of Sir Harry Smith, the 50th Regiment distinguished itself by fighting in all four of the battles of this war, at Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal and Sobraon, during the course of which it was recorded as performing great feats of bravery and losing many men. The regiment was subsequently awarded named Battle Honours in respect of the four main battles which were fought. The regiment had started out as the 52nd Regiment, under an order dated 18 December 1755, but just two years later it was re-numbered as the 50th. The regiment recruited in the Norwich area of Norfolk, and served in the Seven Years War. It was then sent to Jamaica, and in 1776 sailed to America, but the regiment was broken up and used as draft for other regiments. In 1782 the numbered infantry regiments were given territorial titles, and the 50th became the West Kent Regiment. In many cases the origin of the title is a mystery but in the case of the 50th, the Colonel, at that time, was an ex Guards officer; General Sir Thomas Spencer Wilson of Carlton Court near Woolwich, Kent. The Colonelcy of the West Kent Militia had been held by several members of the Wilson family in succession, and it was this unit that formed the 3rd battalion in 1881, when the regiment became the Queen's Own Royal West Kents. With the passing of the years since the memorial was first erected in 1851, understandably with such a lot more to see, visitors to Canterbury Cathedral probably pay only scant attention to the plaque, but it is a memorial of particular importance to the people of Kent. Approximately sixty five percent of the regiment were casualties in, or resultant of the First Sikh War, which included the 48 men, 16 women, and 17 children, who died on 20 May 1846 when the barracks which were being used by the 50th Regiment collapsed.

Sudlej Roll of Honour 1845-1846

Officers, Warrant Officers, and Non Commissioned Officers.

RYAN, THOMAS. Brevet Lieutenant-Colonel. C.B., K.H.

Died of wounds 9 April 1846. Aged 56.

Buried Kasauli Cemetery, Himachal Pradesh, India.

Thomas joined the New Brunswick Fencible Infantry in 1805. He served in North America, and in Peninsula Wars of 1809 -1811, during which time he was wounded and captured in Spain close to the Portuguese border, during the 'Battle of Fuentes de Oñoro' 3-6 May 1811. Thomas joined the 50th Regiment of Foot on 13 August 1830, and later served with the regiment in Australia for six years from 1834 to 1840. On the completion of his service in Australia, Thomas was posted to India, and arrived there in 1841. For his service in India prior to the Sutlej Campaign he was awarded the Maharajpore Star. The stone on his grave at Kasauli cemetery was inscribed "Sacred to the memory of Lieutenant Colonel Thomas Ryan, C.B. and K.H., of Her Majesty's 50th Regiment who died at Kussowlie on the 9th April 1846, of a wound received at the Battle of Sobraon. This tablet is placed over the remains of their lamented comrade by his brother officers as a token of their respect and esteem." Thomas had been made a Knight of Hanover in 1834, and was made a Companion of the Order of the Bath in 1846, but lost his life prior to the announcement of the award of his C.B. At the time of his death, Thomas had not actually been in command of the 50th Regiment of Foot, command of the regiment having by then been passed to Lieutenant-Colonel Peter J. Petit, after Thomas had been placed in command of the 2nd Brigade, to which the 50th Regiment belonged. Whilst actually leading the 2nd Brigade in action, Thomas had been wounded on 10 February 1846 during the Battle of Sorabon. The relevant Orderly Room records entry of the 50th Regiment says about Thomas, "The deepest respect for his name must continue long after the present generation has passed away. His greatest ambition was to live, fight, conquer, and die at the head of his regiment." Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

BROCKMAN, JAMES NEWHOUSE. Lieutenant.

Died 17 December 1845. Aged 30.

Born Cheriton, Folkestone, Kent 24 July 1815.

Son of the Reverend Julius Drake Brockman M.A. and Mrs. Harriett Brockman (née Locke).

Husband of Hannah Christiana Brockman (née Fenwick).

Commemorated on his fathers headstone at St. Martin's Churchyard, Cheriton, Kent. His father died on 7 September 1849, aged 81. Awarded the Moodkee bar. James, who was the youngest of fourteen children was baptised by his father, at the parish church of St. Martin, Cheriton, Folkestone, Kent on 25 October 1815. Originally James was posted as missing; it is believed that he was killed in action near Fort Wadni during the 'Battle of Moodkee.' Several members of the Drake-Brockman family died in the two world wars, and are commemorated in Kent.

CAREY, OCTAVIUS. B.A. Lieutenant.

29th Foot, attached to the 50th Foot.

Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845. Aged 25.

Born Galway, Ireland 11 November 1820.

Eldest son of Major-General Sir Octavius Carey, K.C.B., K.C.H., and Harriot Hirzel Carey (née Le Marchant) of Rozel, Guernsey, Channel Islands.

Commemorated on a memorial at St. Peter's Port Church, Guernsey, Channel Islands, which is inscribed "Sacred to the memory of Lieut. Octavius Carey of Her Majesty's 26th Regt of Foot, eldest son of Major General Sir Octavius Carey of this island. He was killed on the 18th December 1845 in the glorious action of Moodkee on the River Sutlej In the 26th year of his age. His mortal remains were interred by his brother officers in the memorable field where he fell."

Octavius was the second of his parents seventeen children, and was initially educated at Elizabeth College, The Grange, St. Peter Port, Guernsey, Channel Islands, during 1833 and 1834, the College had only reopened in 1829, and Octavius had the College No. 447. In 1834 Octavius was sent to England and was a pupil at Rugby School, from where he went up to Oriel College, Oxford where he gained his B.A. in 1843. On the completion of his studies, he was gazetted as an Ensign in 29th Foot, and was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant in 1845. Having been promoted, Octavius sent in his papers the same year, but on the outbreak of the Sikh War applied to withdraw them. He proceeded to the front, but as his own regiment had not arrived in India he was attached to the 50th Regiment, and went into action with the grenadiers of that regiment. At the 'Battle of Moodkee' he was wounded, and while he was lying helpless on the ground he was hacked to pieces by a group of Sikhs. Regretably, Octavius is numbered amongst the casualties who are not commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, probably due to the fact that he was an attached officer serving with the 50th Foot, as opposed to having been a full time member.

BISHOP, JOHN CUMING. Lieutenant.

Died of wounds 6 February 1846. Aged 20.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

Following the death of a Captain James of the 50th Foot, Lieutenant James John Enoch replaced him, and was promoted to the rank of Captain (without purchase) effective from 17 January 1845. Resulting from James Enoch's promotion, the then Ensign John Cuming, was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant (without purchase) effective from the same date.

GRIMES, CHARLES ROBERT. Lieutenant.

Killed in action at Sobraon 10 February 1846. Aged 25.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

Charles had been appointed an Ensign in the 50th Regiment (by purchase) on 16 March 1838, which is the first reference to a Grimes in the 50th Regiment, in the Army Lists 1800-1839. He was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant on 20 December 1839. Charles served with the regiment in Australia from 23 March 1839. Brother of Joseph Grimes the next casualty briefly commemorated below.

GRIMES, JOSEPH JOHN. Lieutenant.

Killed in action at Aliwal on 28 January 1846. Aged 24.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal bars.

Joseph was gazetted as a Lieutenant in the regiment on 19 June 1841. He fell at Badhowal during the 'Battle of Aliwal,' which was thirteen days before his brother was killed in action at Sobraon.

YOUNG, CHARLES EDWARD. Lieutenant.

Died of wounds at Moodkee on 20 December 1845. Aged 20.

Son of Major Young (late of the 38th Regiment), and of Mrs Young.

Regrettably now lost, the Royal Garrison Church, Portsmouth, used to contain a memorial which bore the following inscription. "To the memory of George James Young, Lieut. 17th Regiment, Bombay N. Infantry, who died at Outacamond on 23rd June 1844, in the 21st year of his age. Also Charles Edward Young, Lieutenant 50th Regiment killed at the Battle of Mookoo on the Sutlej 18th of December 1845, in the 20th year of his age. This tablet is erected by Major and Mrs Young, late of the 38th Regiment, the sorrowing parents of the above young officers cut off in the morning of life in their country's service." Charles died of wounds that were inflicted during the 'Battle of Moodkee on 18 December 1845. Awarded the Moodkee bar.

GRAYDON, ALEXANDER. M.D. Assistant-Surgeon.

Died of wounds at Moodkee on 19 December 1845. Aged 28.

Details of the War Office List of 27 November 1835, which contained the announcement of the appointment of Doctor Alexander Graydon to be the Assistant-Surgeon of the 50th Regiment of Foot, was published in The Court Circular on Saturday 12 December 1835. Prior to going to India with the regiment in 1841, Doctor Graydon had previously served with the regiment in Australia, whilst detachments of the regiment were guarding convicts. During his time spent serving in Australia, it was noted that Grayson had rendered valuable assistance in January 1938, during an outbreak of Typhus onboard the ship "Minerva."

CANTWELL, JOHN. Sergeant-Major, 840.

Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. The 50th Regiment of Foot took two Sikh standards at Ferozeshuhur on 21-22 December 1845. Sergeant-Major Cantwell, it is said, took a third at Sobraon on 10 February 1846, but at the cost of his life. The regimental history of 1895 records: "A third was afterwards captured, and probably by Sergeant-Major Cantwell, at Sobraon. The relevant Orderly Room Records for the period show that: - "Sergeant-Major Cantwell much distinguished himself but was killed at the moment of victory when the regiment was entering the trenches." Part of an extract of paper at the former War Office appertaining to John's heroism says, "and just as he captured a standard from the enemy." Another source about the events surrounding the 10 February 1846 by the 50th Regiment of Foot, says that "Sergeant Godwin, one of the few survivors of this glorious campaign, does not remember a standard being taken. He adds, Sergeant-Major Cantwell was found killed and stripped at the river side." Commenting on the statement by Sergeant James Godwin who was wounded on 21 December 1845, the Commanding Officer of the regiment added the following. "His is not incompatible, however, with the narrative of his capturing the standard, as he would have confided it to an escort: or with that of his being killed at the moment of victory, for he would have been one of the first men into the trenches, and would have followed up the retreating enemy. These three standards for many years decorated the regimental mess room; but in course of time very little of the colours remained, and the author of this work, when in command of the Regiment, had them mounted in an air-tight case with a glass front, the frame of which is made from their own flag-staffs and ornamented with the Crown and Sphinx, and the Kentish horse in silver, with an inscription at the base. This now hangs in All Saint's Church, Maidstone, where the old Crimean colours have also found an honourable resting place." A number of later commentators had made the valid point, that had the Victoria Cross been established at the time of the Sikh Wars, Sergeant-Major John Cantwell would have been a worthy recipient of the award for his valour at Sobraon in 1846.

CHOVILL, SAMUEL. Colour Sergeant, 1074.

Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846. Aged 29.

Born Dunstable, Bedfordshire.

Son of John and Elizabeth Chovill.

Husband of Maria Chovill (née Nowlan).

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Samuel's son; Samuel Lawrence Chovill, was born at Loodiannah, Punjab, India on 15 February 1845. It would appear that by the time that regiment returned to England in 1848, Samuel's widow and young son had sailed to Australia, where it would seem likely that Samuel and Maria had first met. Whilst carrying out the research for these brief commemorations, it was noted by the transcriber that Samuel's direct descendents are Australians living in Australia.

WHYTE, JOHN. Colour Sergeant, 1235.

Died of wounds 28 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

FERRIS, JOHN. Sergeant, 1449.

Died 20 May 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. John was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, he is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

FENTON, MATTHEW. Sergeant, 811.
Killed in action 11 April 1846.
Awarded the Sorabon bar.

HENLEY, ROBERT. Sergeant, 352.
Killed in action 11 April 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

McMICKING, JAMES. Sergeant, 498.
Died of wounds 4 May 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Sorabon bars.
James had been wounded on 21 December 1845 during the 'Battle of Ferozeshuhur,' and also on 10 February 1846 during the 'Battle of Sorabon.' On some of the data checked, James's surname is shown as McMickling, and on the memorial plaque in Canterbury Cathedral, his surname is spelt McMacking.

BECKET, WILLIAM. Corporal, 1156.
Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

BRADSHAW, GEORGE. Corporal, 1155.
Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

BROOKMAN, HENRY. Corporal.
Although a number of various data sources have been checked, during the compiling of this roll of honour, the transcriber of these brief commemorations has been unable thus far, to find any matching details for this casualty other than Henry's entry on the Army of the Sutlej casualty roll. Purely speculation on the part of the transcriber, and should be viewed as such, but it might be of significance that there is no matching entry appertaining to Henry, on the regimental medal roll. It might be the case that although he had been present during the brief Sutlej campaign, Henry might not have actually taken part in any of the four battles, and that is why he has not been commemorated. As can be seen below, there was also another other rank death, of a soldier with the same surname as Henry, he was Private John Brookman who died on 20 May 1846.

CANTWELL, THOMAS. Corporal, 2040.
Died 20 May 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Thomas was wounded during the 'Battle of Moodkee' on 18 December 1845. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Thomas is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

CREAM, THOMAS. Corporal, 1600.
Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

FERGUSON, ROBERT. Corporal, 1904.
Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

JOHNSON, EDWARD. Corporal, 948.
Killed in action at Aliwal on 28 January 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal bars.

KELLY, PATRICK. Corporal, 8194.
Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

PATCELL, HUGH. Corporal, 1015.
Died 28 March 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.
Regretably, Hugh is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral. On some of the data sources checked, Hugh has been recorded with his surname spelt PATCHELL. It is unfortunate that irrespective of which surname spelling is shown on the records, none of them show the details of Hugh's death. Although Hugh had participated in all of the four major battles of the First Sikh War, no details of any wounding to him has been found by the transcriber. Hugh could of course have died of an illness, disease, or as the result of an accident.

ROSS, WILLIAM. Corporal, 530.
Died 20 May 1946.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. William was wounded on 10 February 1846. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, William is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

TAYLOR, SAMUEL. Corporal, 1400.
Killed in action 21 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee and Ferozeshuhur bars.

TAYLOR, WILLIAM. Corporal, 1356.
Killed in action 21 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee and Ferozeshuhur bars.

Sudlej Roll of Honour 1845-1846 Privates and Drummers

ADAMS, JAMES. Private, 940.

Died 30 August 1846.

James was wounded on 10 February 1846 during the Battle of Sorabon. Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, James is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

ALLSOP, ROBERT. Private, 2027.

Died 19 March 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal bars. Regretably, Robert is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

ARMSTRONG, WILLIAM. Drummer, 1991.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. William was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

ASTLEY, ROBERT. Private, 1551.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee and Ferozeshuhur bars.

BARRY, WILLIAM. Private, 2069.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee and Ferozeshuhur bars.

BATES, THOMAS. Private, 1483.

Died 24 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee and Ferozeshuhur bars. Thomas was wounded on 22 December 1845 during the Battle of Ferozeshuhur. Regretably, Thomas is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

BAXTER, JOHN. Private, 1515.

Died 1 March 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. John was wounded on 21 December 1845 during the Battle of Ferozeshuhur, and also on 10 February 1846 during the Battle of Sorabon. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

BAYLEY, HENRY. Private, 1930.

Died 20 May 1846.

Henry was wounded on 10 February 1846 during the Battle of Sorabon.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Sorabon bars. Henry was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Henry is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

BEDDUS, GEORGE. Private, 1218.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar. George was wounded on 18 December 1845 during the Battle of Moodkee. George was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, George is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral. On the Army of the Sutlej 1845-1846 casualty roll, George has been recorded with his surname spelt BEDDUS, but other data sources show his surname spelt BEDDES.

BEISLEY, RICHARD. Private, 1306.

Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

BELL, THOMAS. Private, 2382.

Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

BERRY, JOSEPH. Private, 488.

Died 5 August 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar. Joseph was wounded on 18 December 1845 during the Battle of Moodkee. Regretably, Joseph is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

BLACK, JOHN JAMES. Private, 2195.

Wounded at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

John is probably the casualty who is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral as John Black. Although both the relevant casualty roll, and medal roll show exactly matching entries for Christian names and surname, regimental number and date of being wounded, neither make any reference to the date of his death, but possibly it was on the same day that he was wounded.

BOARDMEN, ALEXANDER. Private, 1848.

Died of wounds 23 January 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

BOOTH, WILLIAM HENRY. Private, 2412.

Died of wounds 16 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

BOWDEN, GEORGE. Private, 2170.

Wounded at Ferozeshuhur.

Awarded the Ferozeshuhur bar. Although George is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, and both the relevant casualty roll, and medal roll show exactly matching entries for his Christian name and surname, regimental number and date of being wounded, neither make any reference to the date of his death, but possibly it was on the same day that he was wounded at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

BRINDLEY, JOSEPH. Private, 2090.

Died of wounds 15 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee and, Ferozeshuhur bar.

BRENNAN, PETER. Private, 1918.

Wounded at Ferozeshuhur.

Awarded the Ferozeshuhur bar. Although Peter is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, and both the relevant casualty roll, and medal roll show exactly matching entries for his Christian name and surname, regimental number and date of being wounded, neither make any reference to the date of his death, but possibly it was on the same day that he was wounded at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

BROOKMAN, JOHN. Private, 1900.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar. John was wounded on 18 December 1845 during the Battle of Moodkee. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

BROOKS, GEORGE. Private, 1115.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 22 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

BROOKS, JOHN. Private, 1049.

Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

BROOKS, JONAS. Private, 2384.

Died 18 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Sorabon bars. Jonas was wounded on 18 December 1845 during the Battle of Moodkee, and also on 10 February 1846 during the Battle of Sorabon. Regretably, Jonas is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

BROWN, JOSEPH. Private, 1206.

Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

BROWN, RICHARD. Private, 1998.

Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

BUCHANAN, JOSEPH. Private, 2029.

Died 30 July 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee and, Ferozeshuhur bars.

BUGGINS, THOMAS. Private, 1393.

Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

BURKE, JOHN. Private, 2083.

Died 8 September 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. John was wounded on 10 February 1846 during the Battle of Sorabon. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

BUSHTON, EDWARD. Private, 495.

Died 19 August 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

BUTTERFIELD, ISRAEL. Private, 2385.

Died of wounds 27 January 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee and, Ferozeshuhur bars.

BUTTERLY, JAMES. Private?

Although James is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, no references of him has been found in official or unofficial data sources. The only book which the transcriber has to hand is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records James as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information.

CADY, JOHN. Private, 1965.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. John was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

CAHILL, DAVID. Private, 2504.

Died 18 August 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

CAHILL, MICHAEL. Private, 2036.

Died 20 July 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

CAIRNS, WILLIAM. Private?

Although James is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, no references of him has been found in official or unofficial data sources. The only book which the transcriber has to hand is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records James as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information.

CALLAGHAN, JOHN. Private, 2453.

John was wounded at Moodkee. Although John is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, and both the relevant casualty roll, and medal roll show exactly matching entries for his Christian name and surname, regimental number and date of being wounded, neither make any reference to the date of his death, but possibly it was on the same day that he was wounded.

CALLAGHAN, PATRICK. Private, 1584.

Died 12 September 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Patrick was wounded on 10 February 1846 during the Battle of Sorabon. Regretably, Patrick is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

CAMPION, JOHN. Private, 1980.

Died 18 September 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. John was wounded on 22 December 1845 during the Battle of Ferozeshuhur. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

CARROLL, DENNIS. Private, 1971.

Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

CLARKE, WILLIAM. Private, 1305.

Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

CLAYTON, JOHN. Private, 2199.

Died 20 May 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars. John was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

CLIFFORD, WILLIAM. Private, 1168.

Died of wounds 13 February 1846.

Awarded the Ferozeshuhur bar.

COLEY, CHARLES. Private, 2391.

Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

COLGAN, JOHN. Private, 838.
Died of wounds 1 February 1846.
Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

COLLEN, JAMES. Private, 2374.
Died 27 August 1846.
Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. James was wounded on 10 February 1846 during the Battle of Sorabon. Regretably, James is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

COLLINS, MARTIN. Private, 1660.
Died 30 August 1846.
Awarded the Aliwal bar. Martin was wounded on 28 January 1846. Regretably, Martin is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

CONNELL, DENNIS. Private, 2261.
Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

CONNELLY, DENNIS. Private, 2365.
Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

COOK, JAMES. Private, 2088.
Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

CORNER, WILLIAM. Private, 2037.
Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

COX, DAVID. Private, 1332.
Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

CRAIGER, GEORGE. Private, 2206.
Died 20 May 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. George was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, George is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral. It was noted whilst researching that on some of the data accessed, George's Christian name is spelt CAIGER.

CRESWICK, MORGAN. Private, 1177.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 22 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

CRONAN, BARTHOLOMEW. Private, 2046.

Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

CROOK, JOHN. Private, 2108.

Died 20 May 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. George was wounded on 10 February 1846. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

CUFF, FRANCIS. Private, 1531.

Died 20 May 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Francis was wounded on 18 December 1845. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Francis is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

CULLEN, MICHAEL. Private, 2456.

Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

CUNNINGHAM, THOMAS. Private?

Although Thomas is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, no references of him has been found in official or unofficial data sources. The only book which the transcriber has to hand is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records Thomas as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information.

CUNSTABLE, JOHN CHARLES. Private, 2314.

Died 19 August 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. On some of the data sources checked, John is recorded with his surname spelt CONSTABLE. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

DALEY, EUGENE. Private, 2019.
Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

DANIEL, RICHARD. Private, 2144.
Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

DANNAHER, JOHN. Private.
Died 20 May 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. John was wounded at Feroz on 21 December 1845. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

DAVID, GEORGE. Private, 1417.
Died of wounds at Moodkee on 19 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

DAVIS, JAMES. Private, 2271.
Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

DAVIS, OLIVER B. Private, 1752.
Died 20 May 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee, and Sorabon bars. Oliver was wounded at Moodkee on 18 December 1845 and at Sorabon on 10 February 1846. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Oliver is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

DAVISON, JOHN. Private, 2220.
Died of wounds 1 February 1846.
Awarded the Aliwal bar.

DAWSON, JOSHUA. Private, 1186.
Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 22 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

DEATH, WILLIAM. Private, 2316.

Died 25 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars. On some of the data sources checked, William is recorded with his surname spelt D'EATH, but on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, and on the Army of the Sudlej 1845-1846 casualty roll it is spelt DEATH.

DEEKES, CHARLES. Private, 1056.

Died 7 August 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, Charles is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

DEMPSEY, WILLIAM. Private, 935.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

DENNIS, JOHN. Private?

Although John is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, no references of him has been found in official or unofficial data sources. The only book which the transcriber has to hand is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records John as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information.

DENSLEY, WILLIAM. Private, 1770.

Died 22 March 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar. William was wounded at Moodkee on 18 December 1845. Regretably, he is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

DONAGHAN, JAMES. Private?

Although James is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, no references of him has been found in official or unofficial data sources. The only book which the transcriber has to hand is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records James as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information.

DONAGHUE, JOHN. Private, 2020.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

DONAGHUE, PHILIP. Private, 628.

Died of wounds 21 January 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

DOOLAN, DANIEL. Private, 821.
Died of wounds 12 January 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

DOOLEY, DANIEL. Private, 1825.
Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

DOOLEY, MICHAEL. Private, 2417.
Wounded at Aliwal on 28 January 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal bars. Although Michael is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, and both the relevant casualty roll, and medal roll show exactly matching entries for his Christian name and surname, regimental number and date of being wounded, neither make any reference to the date of his death, but possibly it was on the same day that he was wounded at Aliwal. As Michael was not a recipient of the clasp for the 'Battle of Sobraon' on 10 February 1846, it would seem likely that if he had not died on the day of his wounded, then he had probably succumbed to his wounds at some point in time prior to 10 February 1846.

DOWD, MICHAEL. Private, 1613.
Died of wounds 26 December 1845.
Awarded the Ferozeshuhur bar.

DUNLEVEY, MICHAEL. Private, 517.
Died of wounds 30 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee bar. Regretably, Michael is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

DUNN, FRANCIS. Private, 1827.
Killed in action at Sobraon on 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

DUNN, RICHARD. Private, 1653.
Died 17 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

DYER, THOMAS. Private, 1310.
Died of wounds at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

EADY, WILLIAM. Private, 1766.
Killed in action 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

EATON, HENRY. Private, 2487.

Died 3 September 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, Henry is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

ELLIOTT, JOSEPH. Private, 1479.

Died of wounds at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars. . Regretably, Joseph is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

EVATT, GEORGE. Private, 2505.

Died of wounds 28 February 1846.

Awarded the Sorabon bar.

FANNING, PETER. Private, 2462.

Died of wounds 16 February 1846.

Awarded the Sorabon bar. Peter died of the wounds which he received during the 'Battle of Sorabon' on 10 February 1846.

FARMER, JOHN. Private, 4501.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar. John was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

FARNEY, GEORGE. Private, 1452.

Died of wounds 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

FEENEY, BRIEN. Private, 936.

Died of wounds 12 February 1846.

Awarded the Sorabon bar. Brien died of the wounds which he received during the 'Battle of Sorabon' on 10 February 1846. Commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral as BRYAN FEANEY.

FEENEY, PETER. Private, 994.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Peter was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Peter is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

FINNIGAN, HENRY. Private, 1670.

Died 12 March 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, Henry is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

FITZPATRICK, DANIEL. Private, 963

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Daniel had previously been wounded in action at Feroz on 21 December 1845.

FLYNN, JAMES. Private, 2455.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars. Commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral as JAMES FLINN.

FLYNN, MICHAEL. Private, 2421.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Michael was wounded at Sorabon on 10 February 1896. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Michael is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

FORD, JAMES F. Private, 2215.

Died 22 June 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, James is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

FROBISHER, BENJAMIN. Private, 1635.

Died 22 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, Benjamin is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

GARRETT, WILLIAM. Private, 2096.
Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

GARRETT, WILLIAM. Private, 2153.
Died 30 January 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal bars.

GIBBONS, JOHN. Private, 1233.
Died 31 May 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

GIBSON, RICHARD. Private, 2022.
Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

GILLMAN, RICHARD. Private, 1995.
Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

GLEESON, FRANCIS. Private, 982.
Died 9 March 1846.
Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Francis was wounded at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

GOODWIN, JOHN. Private, 1724.
Died of wounds 8 January 1846.
Awarded the Ferozeshuhur bar.

GORDON, WILLIAM. Private, 2491.
Died 28 July 1846.
Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, William is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

GREEN, RICHARDSON. Private, 886.
Died 20 May 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Richardson was wounded at Sorabon on 10 February 1896. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Richardson is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

GREENFIELD, GEORGE. Private?

Although George is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, no references of him has been found in official or unofficial data sources. The only book which the transcriber has to hand is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records George as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information.

GROW, JAMES. Private, 1182.

Died 4 March 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, James is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

HABKINS, CHARLES. Private, 2228.

Died 26 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, Charles is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

HALFORD, BENJAMIN. Private, 1855.

Died 27 March 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar. Benjamin was wounded at Moodkee on 18 December 1845. Regretably, he is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

HAMAR, AARON. Private, 1560.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

HANCOCK, GEORGE. Private, 2264.

Died of wounds 17 February 1846.

Awarded the Sorabon bar. George died of the wounds which he received during the 'Battle of Sorabon' on 10 February 1846.

HARLOW, BENJAMIN. Private, 2356.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

HARRIS, FREDERICK. Private, 2086.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

HARRIS, JAMES. Private, 1148.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

HART, HENRY. Private, 1252.
Died of wounds 30 January 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

HATCHER, THOMAS. Private, 1881.
Died 30 May 1846.
Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Thomas was wounded at Sorabon on 10 February 1846. Regretably, Thomas is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

HAYES, HENRY. Private, 1308.
Died 11 June 1846.
Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.
Henry was wounded at Sorabon on 10 February 1846. Regretably, he is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

HAYES, JOHN. Private, 2425.
Died 24 March 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee bar. John was wounded at Moodkee on 18 December 1845. Regretably, he is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

HAYWARD, EDWARD. Private, 2360.
Awarded the Sorabon bar.
Although Edward is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, and both the relevant casualty roll, and medal roll show exactly matching entries for his Christian name and surname, regimental number and date of being wounded, neither make any reference to the date of his death. Purely speculation on the part of the transcriber and should therefore be viewed as such, but it would seem likely that as Edward was a recipient of the clasp for the 'Battle of Sorabon' on 10 February 1846, it was there that he either fell or died of wounds received during the battle.

HEALY, MATTHEW. Private, 1580.
Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

HILL, JOHN. Private, 2322.
Died 26 July 1846.
Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

HOGAN, DANIEL. Private, 1818.
Killed in action at Aliwal on 28 January 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal bars.

HOLLAND, JOHN. Private, 2137.
Killed in action at Aliwal on 28 January 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, and Aliwal bars. John was wounded at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

HOLWELL, WILLIAM. Private, 2145.
Died of wounds 15 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. William died of the wounds which he received during the 'Battle of Sorabon' on 10 February 1846.

HORSBURGH, JOHN. Private, 2143
Died 4 September 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. John was wounded at Sorabon on 10 February 1846. Regretably, he is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

HUGHES, ELLIS. Private, 2189.
Awarded the Sorabon bar.
Although Ellis is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, and both the relevant casualty roll, and medal roll show exactly matching entries for his Christian name and surname, regimental number and date of being wounded, neither make any reference to the date of his death. Purely speculation on the part of the transcriber and should therefore be viewed as such, but it would seem likely that as Ellis was a recipient of the clasp for the 'Battle of Sorabon' on 10 February 1846, it was there that he either fell, or died of wounds received during the battle.

HUNT, JOHN. Private, 2508.
Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

HUSBAND, ROBERT. Private?
Although Robert is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, no references of him has been found in official or unofficial data sources. The only book which the transcriber has to hand is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records Robert as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information.

HUTCHINS, JOHN. Private, 1814.

Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee bar. Commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral as JOHN HUTCHIN.

INGOLD, JOHN. Private, 2225.

Died of wounds 22 March 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

JACKSON, THOMAS. Private, 1873.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

JACKSON, WILLIAM. Private?

Although William is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, no references of him has been found in official or unofficial data sources. The only book which the transcriber has to hand is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records William as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information.

JAMES, JOHNSON. Private, 1429.

Died of wounds 27 January 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Johnson is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral with his Christian name spelt JOHN. All supporting relevant data which has been checked shows his Christian name as being Johnson.

JEFFREY, JOSEPH. Private, 669.

Died of wounds 12 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Joseph died of the wounds which he received during the 'Battle of Sorabon' on 10 February 1846.

JOHNSON, FREDERICK. Private, 2018.

Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

JOHNSTON, WILLIAM. Private?

Although William is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, no references of him has been found in official or unofficial data sources. The only book which the transcriber has to hand is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records William as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information.

JORDAN, STEPHEN. Private, 1744.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

JUDD, EDWARD. Private, 1706.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Edward was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Edward is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral. It was noted that on some of the data sources which have been accessed, that Edward is recorded with his surname shown as RUDD.

KELLY, DANIEL. Private, 1456.

Died 6 April 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Daniel was wounded at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

KELLY, JAMES. Private, 1011.

Died 18 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar. James was wounded at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

KELLY, JOHN. Private, 2428.

Died 8 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar. James was wounded at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

KELLY, MARTIN. Private, 1499.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

KELLY, PHILIP. Private, 2485.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

KELLY, THOMAS. Private, 1604.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Thomas was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Thomas is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

KELLY, WILLIAM. Private, 2005.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar. William was wounded at Moodkee on 18 December 1845. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, William is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

KENDRICK, JOHN. Private, 1505.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Sorabon bars. John was wounded at Sorabon on 10 February 1846. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

KENNEALY, WILLIAM. Private, 1500.

Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

KEYS, JAMES. Private, 903.

Died of wounds 21 January 1846.

Awarded the Ferozeshuhur bar.

LAWLER, PETER. Private, 2429.

Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

LAWSON, THOMAS. Private, 2255.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

LEARY, JAMES. Private, 2385

Died 29 April 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. James was wounded at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

LUCAS, BENJAMIN. Private, 1224.

Died of wounds 11 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Benjamin Joseph died of the wounds which he received during the 'Battle of Sorabon' on 10 February 1846.

LYNCH, MICHAEL. Private, 1629.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

MAHONEY, DANIEL. Private?

Although Daniel is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, no references of him has been found in official or unofficial data sources. The only book which the transcriber has to hand is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records Daniel as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information. It was noted whilst researching that there was a Private, 1996, JOHN MAHONEY who served in the 50th Regiment of Foot during the time of the First Sikh War, and was awarded the Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. It is possible that Daniel and John is in fact the same soldier, and that he has been commemorated by the use of the wrong Christian name on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

MARSH, RICHARD. Private, 1275.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

MARTIN, WILLIAM. Private, 961.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

MASON, JOHN. Private, 1751.

Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

MATTHEWS, FELIX. Private, 2413.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

McCABLE, JOHN. Private, 768.

Died 2 September 1946.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. On some of the data sources checked, John's surname is shown as McCabe. John is not to be confused with John Cabe Private, 803, who served in the regiment and was awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars, and was wounded during the Battle of Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

McCLONE, JAMES. Private, 915.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. James was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, James is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

McCOOL, JAMES. Private, 367.

Died 27 March 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. James was wounded at Feroz on 21 December 1845. Regretably, he is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

McCULLAM, JAMES. Private, 370.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 22 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars. Depending on what sources of reference is consulted, results in three different spellings of the surname for this casualty. The spelling of his surname as shown above, is how he has been commemorated on the memorial plaque in Canterbury Cathedral. The other two spellings noted whilst researching were McCullen, and McMullen, all three name variants show the same regimental number, and matching date of his death. James fell at Ferozeshuhur during the capture of Sikh artillery pieces by the regiment.

McEWEN, JOHN. Private, 2048.

Died 7 September 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar. John was wounded at Moodkee on 18 December 1845. Regretably, he is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

McGLINN, HUGH. Private, 396.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Hugh was wounded at Moodkee on 18 December 1845. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Hugh is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

McKEAN, THOMAS. Private, 1888.

Died of wounds 10 January 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

McKENNA, PATRICK. Private, 970.
Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

McKNIGHT, WILLIAM. Private, 2437.
Died of wounds 11 January 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

MINNEY, WILLIAM. Private?
Although William is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, no references of him has been found in official or unofficial data sources. The only book which the transcriber has to hand is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records William as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information.

MITCHELL, ARCHIBALD. Private, 2362.
Died 20 May 1846.
Awarded the Aliwal bar. Archibald was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Archibald is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

MITCHELL, JOHN. Private, 1625.
Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

MITCHELL, WILLIAM. Private?
Although William is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, no references of him has been found in official or unofficial data sources. The only book which the transcriber has to hand is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records William as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information.

MORAN, JOHN. Private, 2431.
Died 4 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars. John was wounded at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845. Although this casualty is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral as JAMES MORAN, but on different data sources checked, including the Sutlej medal roll of the regiment, and on the Army of the Sutlej 1845-1846 casualty roll, he is recorded as being John Moran.

MORRIS, JOHN. Private, 1483.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Archibald was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Archibald is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

MULLINS, WILLIAM. Private, 1582.

Died 22 February 1846

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars. William was wounded at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

MURPHY, EDMUND. Private?

Although Edmund is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, no references of him has been found in official or unofficial data sources. The only book which the transcriber has to hand is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records Edmund as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information.

MURPHY, JOHN. Private, 636.

Wounded at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal and Sorabon bars. Although John is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, and both the relevant casualty roll, and medal roll show exactly matching entries for his Christian name and surname, regimental number and date of being wounded, neither make any reference to the date of his death. Purely speculation on the part of the transcriber and should therefore be viewed as such, but it would seem likely that as John was a recipient of the clasp for the 'Battle of Sorabon' on 10 February 1846, where he was wounded, and that it was there that he either fell, or died of wounds received during the battle.

NORTH, THOMAS. Private, 1347.

Died 14 March 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Thomas was wounded at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

NUGENT, MICHAEL. Private, 1586.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 22 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

O'BRIEN, MICHAEL. Private, 1973.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Michael was wounded at Ferozeshuhur on 10 February 1846. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Michael is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

O'SHAUGHNESSY, TIMOTHY. Private, 2233

Killed in action at Aliwal on 28 January 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal, bars.

PALFREY, JAMES. Private, 2399.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

PEARSON, FRANCIS. Private, 2044.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

PEEL, JOHN. Private, 1968.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

PEGG, MATTHEW. Private, 1753.

Killed in action at Aliwal on 28 January 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, bar.

PERRY, THOMAS. Private, 1434.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

PIKE, EDWARD. Private, 1528.

Died 25 January 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

PIKE, THOMAS. Private, 1208.

Died of wounds 4 January 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

POOLE, JOHN. Private, 1476.

Wounded at Aliwal on 28 January 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bar. Although John is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral with his surname spelt POOLE, the relevant medal roll entry shows matching Christian name and regimental number, but with his surname spelt POOL. The Army of the Sutlej 1845-1846 casualty roll also shows this casualty as being JOHN POOL. Neither the medal roll entry for John, nor the casualty roll make any reference at all to the date of his death.

QUIGLEY, JAMES. Private, 1850.

Died 16 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. James was wounded at Ferozeshuhur on 10 February 1846.

RAMSBOTTOM, JOHN. Private, 2000.

Died of wounds at Moodkee on 20 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

RANKIN, JOHN. Private, 346.

Died 20 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal bars. John was wounded at Aliwal on 22 December 1845. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Lodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

REES, JOHN. Private, 1999.

Died 11 May 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. John was wounded at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

REILLY, THOMAS. Private, 2401.

Died 1 January 1896.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars. Thomas was wounded at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

RICE, JAMES. Private, 1914.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

RICHARDSON, JOHN. Private, 1713.

Died of wounds 4 January 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

RICKABY, WILLIAM. Private, 1694.
Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

RIDDLESTOFF, EDWARD. Private, 1516.
Died of wounds 17 January 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

RIXON, EDWARD. Private, 1318.
Died 20 May 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Edward was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Edward is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral. On some data, this casualty is recorded as being EDWIN RIXON. The Army of the Sutlej 1845-1846 casualty roll shows his Christian name as being Edward.

ROBERTS, GEORGE. Private, 1800.
Died of wounds 28 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

ROBERTS, WILLIAM. Private, 2472.
Awarded the Sorabon bar. Although William is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, and relevant medal roll shows an exactly matching entries appertaining to his Christian name, surname, regimental number, it makes no reference to the date of his death. The only book which the transcriber has to hand is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records William as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information, which might have been of use when trying to ascertain the date of William's death.

RONALDS, RICHARD. Private, 2402.
Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

ROSS, William M. Drummer, 677.
Died 20 May 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. William was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, William is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

RUTHERFORD, ROBERT. Private, 1060.
Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee, and Ferozeshuhur bars.

SHEA, WILLIAM. Private, 774.
Died 4 March 1846.
Awarded the Aliwal bar.

SHERRIDAN, JOHN. Private, 1567.
Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

SKEATS, JOHN. Private, 1245.
Died of wounds 1 January 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

SLEIGH, WILLIAM. Private, 2132.
Died 20 May 1845.
Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. William was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, William is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

SMITH, GEORGE. Private, 2188.
Died of wounds 9 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal bars.

SMITH, JOHN. Private, 1511.
Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

SMITH, WILLIAM. Private, 1815.
Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.
Awarded the Moodkee bar.

SPANTON, ROBERT. Private, 1038.
Killed in action at Aliwal on 28 January 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal bars.

SPEAK, THOMAS. Private, 1984.
Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.
Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal bars.

STANWICK, SAMUEL. Private, 1339.

Died 20 May 1845.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Samuel was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Samuel is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

STEELE, SAMUEL. Private, 801.

Died 2 April 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

STEVENS, GEORGE. Private, 1854.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal bars.

STEVENS, JOHN. Private, 1242.

Died 16 March 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee and Ferozeshuhur bars. John was wounded at Ferozeshuhur on 22 December 1845. Although this casualty is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral as JAMES STEVENS, but on different data sources checked, including the Sutlej medal roll of the regiment, and on the Army of the Sutlej 1845-1846 casualty roll, he is recorded as JOHN STEVENS.

STEVENS, THOMAS. Private, 1300.

Thomas is commemorated on the memorial plaque in Canterbury Cathedral, and also on the Sutlej medal roll of the regiment, which shows that he was awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal bars. Unfortunately no matching entry appertaining to Thomas's death was located on the Army of the Sutlej 1845-1846 casualty roll. Purely speculation on the part of the transcriber and should be view as such, but in view of his medal entitlement, and the fact that he was not a recipient of the clasp for Sorabon, it would seem likely that Thomas had fallen during the 'Battle of Aliwal' on 28 January 1846. Had Thomas died as the result of a wound or wounds several months later, as sadly was the case with many of his comrades, like them, he too would not have been commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, which appears to be the reason why casualties of the campaign were not commemorated on the memorial plaque.

SULLIVAN, DENNIS. Private, 955.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal bars.

SULLIVAN, JOHN. Private, 2077.

Died 20 May 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. John was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral. On the medal roll, this casualty has been entered on it with his Christian name as William.

SULLIVAN, MICHAEL. Private, 2071.

Died 28 July 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar. Michael was wounded at Moodkee on 18 December 1845. Regretably, he is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

TAYLOR, SAMUEL. Private, 1905.

Died 20 May 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Samuel was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Samuel is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

THOMPSON, CHARLES. Private, 2007.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee and Ferozeshuhur bars. Although this casualty is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral as CHARLES TOMKINS, but on different data sources checked, including the Sutlej medal roll of the regiment, and on the Army of the Sutlej 1845-1846 casualty roll, he is recorded as CHARLES THOMPSON.

THOMPSON, ALEXANDER. Private, 2197.

Died 20 May 1845.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Alexander was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Alexander is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

THORPE, WILLIAM. Private, 1565.

Died 17 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee and Ferozeshuhur bars.

TODD, THOMAS. Private, 711.

Died 8 June 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, THOMAS is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

TOWHEY, JAMES. Private, 782.

Died 20 May 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. James was wounded at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Lodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, James is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

TRAVERS, JOHN. Private, 1522.

Died of wounds 16 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee and Ferozeshuhur bars. John was wounded at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

TRAVIS, JAMES. Private?

Although James is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, no references of him has been found in official or unofficial data sources. The only book which the transcriber has to hand, is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records Edmund as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information. Purely speculation on the part of the transcriber and should be viewed as such, but in view of the similarity between the Christian and surname of John Travers who is the last casualty briefly commemorated above, and James Travis, it would seem likely that James Travis was in fact John Travers, and was commemorated by the use of the wrong Christian and surname on the memorial.

TURNER, GEORGE. Private, 2227.

Died of wounds at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

TURNER, THOMAS. Private, 1547.

Died of wounds 30 August 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Thomas was wounded at Sorabon on 10 February 1846. He is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

TUSTIN, WILLIAM HENRY. Private, 1090.

Died of wounds 30 August 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal bars. William was wounded at Aliwal on 28 January 1846. William is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

URQUHART, JAMES. Private, 414.

Died of wounds 18 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, James is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

VANN, HENRY. Private, 2208.

Died of wounds at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, Henry is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

VELLAVOIS, JAMES. Private, 2134.

Died 20 May 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. James was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, James is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

WADE, FRANCIS, Private?

Although Francis is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, no references of him has been found in official or unofficial data sources. The only book which the transcriber has to hand, is the regimental history of the 50th Regiment of Foot for the period, which records Francis as being named on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral, but which provides no additional information.

WADE, ROGER. Private, 1609.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 22 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee and Ferozeshuhur bars.

WAIT, JOHN. Private, 2150.

Died of wounds at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

WALKER, WILLIAM. Private, 1679.

Died of wounds at Moodkee on 20 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee bar. William died of the wounds he had received at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

WALL, GEORGE. Private, 1527.

Died 20 May 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. George was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, George is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

WALLACE, ROBERT. Private, 2325

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

WALSH, EDWARD. Private, 1249.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee and Ferozeshuhur bars.

WATKINS, RICHARD. Private, 1679.

Died 20 May 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Richard was wounded at Sorabon on 10 February 1846. He was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, Richard is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

WATTS, CHARLES. Private, 1759.

Killed in action at Moodkee on 18 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.

WEAVERING, JOHN. Private, 1811.

Died of wounds at Ferozeshuhur on 22 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee and Ferozeshuhur bars. Regretably, John is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

WESLEY, GEORGE. Private, 1737.

Died of wounds at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Regretably, George is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

WHEELAN, JOHN. Private, 775.

Died of wounds 16 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. John died of the wounds which he received at Sorabon on 10 February 1846. Although this casualty is commemorated on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral as JOHN WHEATON, but on different data sources checked, including the Sutlej medal roll of the regiment, and on the Army of the Sutlej 1845-1846 casualty roll, he is recorded as being JOHN WHEELAN.

WHITTAKER, JAMES. Private, 2140.

Killed in action at Aliwal on 28 January 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Aliwal, bars.

WILLIAMS, EDWARD. Private, 2102.

Killed in action at Ferozeshuhur on 21 December 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee and Ferozeshuhur bars.

WILLIAMSON, JAMES. Private, 2408.

Died 20 May 1845.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. James was one of the victims of the barracks collapse at Loodiannah, and was numbered amongst the men, women and children who were commemorated on the memorial there. Regretably, James is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral. On some of the data accessed, this casualty is shown with his surname as being WILLIAMS.

WILTSHIRE, PETER. Private, 1893.

Killed in action 21 January 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee and Ferozeshuhur bars.

WINN, PATRICK. Private, 158.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, Aliwal, and Sorabon bars.

WOOLEY, RICHARD. Private, 2363.

Died 13 September 1846.

Awarded the Aliwal, and Sorabon bars. Richard was wounded at Sorabon on 10 February 1846. Regretably, Richard is numbered amongst the regiments casualties who are not commemorated with their comrades on the memorial in Canterbury Cathedral.

WRIGHT, WILLIAM. Private, 2021.

Killed in action at Sorabon on 10 February 1846.

Awarded the Moodkee bar.