

Someone in Luton does care about the local fallen after all. Whoever erected this fine tribute should be proud of what they have achieved here. It's a pity that the other Luton memorial isn't being afforded the same kind of concern and protection.